NEWS

Endorsed

The regional council has weighed in on what is sure to be a spirited race for the next St. Louis County Executive. Mark Mantovani, a retired CEO, narrowly lost a previous run at the job but is poised now to win a victory. "Mark has a vision to grow the County that will put St. Louisans to work and grow the entire region," said EST Al Bond.

Renaissance

Frustration over stagnant wages is causing more walk-outs and work stoppages across the U.S. This renaissance in worker action has been tied to the abundance of employers looking to fill jobs, and workers feeling unappreciated. "Workers are saying, 'We're 10 years into the recovery. Why am I not seeing a decent wage increase?'"

Boost

Missouri Sen. Roy Blunt, chair of the subcommittee that oversees labor and education, wants to boost federal money for apprenticeships and job training programs. He's released an appropriations bill for the coming year to expand training opportunities. "For the last 20 or 30 years, there's been too much singular focus on the way to get a good job is a college degree."

Dream Home: We spent this past weekend with Cheltenham Construction Services working on the 2020 St. Jude Dream home, which will be raffled off to raise money for the famed children's hospital. Payne Family Homes will be offering raffle tickets through its website starting in June.
